

Dear Sponsor,

By Chance Farm, LLC is proud to host FOUR 1-day, United States Dressage Federation (USDF) Recognized and United States Equestrian Federation (USEF) Licensed Dressage Competitions. Only a few of these competitions exist within a one hour drive of our facility in Union Bridge, MD. “Dressage, By Chance?”, our July weekend event, has become a popular show destination for the over 1500 dressage competitors in the Central Maryland, Northern Virginia, Southern Pennsylvania and Eastern West Virginia region. These competitors come out in force each year with an average of 65 entrants and 110 rides in two arenas. Starting in 2020, we are now hosting an April and September one day competition along with the July two day extravaganza, including overnight stabling, and our Saturday evening Musical Freestyle Challenge competition with $1000 in prize money! Each show offers qualifying classes for both the Colonel Bengt Ljungquist Memorial Championships as well as the USDF Region 1 Championships at Training level through the FEI Grand Prix level. As a USDF/USEF competition, the show continues to gain nationwide acknowledgement through both organizations.

Why is this show different?

“Dressage, By Chance?” shows stand apart from other local competitions in a few ways. First, many competitions do not offer special classes for Adult Amateurs, pitting weekend warriors, the backbone of the sport, against professional riders who show for a living. Our competitions offer separate classes for Adult Amateurs so they can compete against one another on a more level playing field. Second, we award super prizes to the winners of each of the classes, staying true to the By Chance Farm show motto of “Win More Than a Ribbon”! Third, we really try to keep competition entry costs low regardless of what we offer in quality. And lastly, the July competition offers a Saturday evening Musical Freestyle Challenge with $1000 of prize money and fantastic prizes in three classes.

The Goal

Easy. Fun. Adult Amateur Friendly. Promote Musical Freestyles.

Entering a licensed competition can be incredibly daunting. It’s expensive, the forms are complicated and there are associations that entrants are required to join, or pay non-member fees per show. Offering Opportunity Classes will help those competitors new to showing save a little money but get the experience of a licensed show environment. Great prizes and competition on a level playing field make a show fun for everyone. Knowing that, when they enter, classes will ensure peer to peer competition, helps relieve some of the competition stress, creating a fun and pleasant show. Musical Freestyles are a small portion of the lower level show atmosphere. Hosting a challenge class encourages and promotes the art of freestyle riding to music. Offering separate classes allows competitors to again compete against their peers while showing off their creativity and artistry.
